

We belong at Workers', do you?

Tammy

"I've been at Workers' since March of 2006.

I started as a Call Center Rep and now I am a Loan Processor in Lending. Working in Lending is great. My colleagues are helpful and so easy to approach—no matter the question. I've had flexibility in my hours, and this company is sensitive to life issues. And, you won't find events like Movie Night and the STARS Awards night at other organizations. I tell my friends all the time to apply for a job at Workers' because it is an amazing place to come to every day. I feel like I belong."

"I can honestly say, I have FUN working here. There is opportunity for growth, education and advancement, and the people I work with are, well, the best! I started in Accounting and then moved to the Fitchburg branch as an Financial Services Representative (FSR). I love the diversity and the challenges in assisting people with their financial needs. I'm bilingual, and it's an advantage to help out members with language barriers. I've learned so much at Workers' because of the continued support and training, they make it easy to do what I do. Everyone here makes you feel like you belong. And I do."

I came to Workers' in 2007 as an FSR for the Chelmsford Branch with no background in financial services. I've always enjoyed numbers and customer service; it seemed like a good fit. It is such a positive environment with opportunities for advancement—now I'm the Assistant Branch Manager. The Workers' Quarterly Incentive program is excellent. It gives everyone a chance to be rewarded. I can honestly say that everyone in every department is very helpful and my boss has always encouraged me. What a great feeling! I enjoy going to work, because everyday you just feel like you belong.

I work in Operations, servicing mortgages, and I love to help our members, it's the credit union philosophy of "People Helping People". We focus on our members and do what's right for them—that makes me feel like I make a difference in their lives. Not only that, it's like a family here. Fred says "Hello!" when he sees you in the credit union—all of upper management is approachable and friendly. I feel recognized and appreciated. And, this company encourages us to give back to the community with paid time off. Workers' is a great place to work, ultimately, I feel like I belong here.

I started 30 years ago, through the years, I've worked in various departments which have assisted in promoting my personal and professional growth, including encouragement and financial support to further my education. What has kept me here so long? Workers' has remained financially solid through the good and not-so-good times. This has afforded the continuation of a safe, competitive financial institution and allows Workers' to give back to our communities, while providing a stable work environment for its employees. This is a great place to work; every day I feel like I belong.

I was working at another financial institution and knew Workers' was for me. I had done my research and knew this would be a great opportunity. I received excellent training, from start to finish. This allows me to teach others, as well as gain new skills to assist our members. And to be recognized for my hard work—Star of the Month & Rookie of the Year in 2008—that feels good. Everyone here really works as a team, and it just feels like family. I always brag about my company—I know I belong.

At the beginning of 2007 I was working for one of the big banks and was looking for a change, an opportunity that was more personal, where I could make a difference. Workers' was growing and I kept hearing great things; you couldn't help but notice their commitment to the community in all they do. This company is a perfect fit for me—my opinion counts with my peers, my colleagues listen! The team is so supportive and my ideas have been implemented. I even won the President's Award in 2008, now that's recognition! I feel like I can make a difference and educate our members—that motivates me every day. Workers' is where I belong.
